

This questionnaire is part of a larger project in Psicospace that seeks to relate psychology, space and color. It will be applied to different people around the world, with the aim of setting the colors of the emotions and experiences of real life. Looks for what is the color of happiness, health, death, etc., in order to exploit this information to improve our life and understand the qualities of our cultural preferences.

That is why I ask your help in this ambitious project.
